testing such a 'complete' theory

Many people hope that a complete theory would allow us to calculate the numerical values of some constants, like  $c$ ,  $h$ , and  $G$  as accurately as we liked. This would also be a wonderful way of testing such a 'complete' theory. So far this is just a dream.

The term "theory of relativity" was based on the expression "relative theory" used in 1906 by Planck, who emphasized how the theory uses the principle of relativity - wiki
